at the UC San Diego School of Global Policy and Strategy

The Center for U.S.-Mexican Studies at the UC San Diego School of Global Policy and Strategy is now accepting letters of intent for our visiting fellows program. Since 1980, we have remained one of the leading residential fellowship programs in the U.S. for research on Mexico and U.S.-Mexico relations.

Letters are welcomed from professors on sabbatical and Ph.D. candidates who have completed a substantial portion of their dissertation. You must be concurrently employed or enrolled at your home university to receive a fellowship stipend.

Additionally, we have a limited amount of funding for postdoctoral students from Mexico, who are strongly encouraged to apply simultaneously for funding from the UC Institute for Mexico and the United States and/or the Consejo Nacional de Ciencia y Tecnología.

Residential periods must be between four and nine months in duration beginning in September 2018 or January 2019. Fellowships may not be over the summer months (except in the case of postdoctoral students).

Complete details, including an overview of the application process, can be found here. The deadline to submit a one-page letter of intent describing the work you plan to complete while in residence has been extended to Wednesday, Nov. 8.

Applicants will be notified Nov. 15 if they are invited to submit a full application, which will be due in mid-December.

As a friend of the center, please widely circulate this call and visit our webpage to can learn more about our current visiting fellows and their research projects.

Un abrazo,
